

EVANGELIST HELPS TO DEFEAT PENROSE BY FIGHTING SALOON

People of Coatesville and Neighboring Towns Are Stirred to Organized Action by Doctor Anderson's Appeals

COATESVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—The people of Coatesville and neighboring towns are being aroused against the saloon by a series of appeals from Dr. Anderson, who is conducting a ministerial service here in a large tabernacle with a saloon front porch and a down-to-earth atmosphere.

All last week, the first one of the evangelist's appeals was made in the saloon at almost every saloon, and yesterday was almost exclusively devoted to the saloon.

Although Doctor Anderson did not mention the name of Senator Penrose in his appeal, it is plain that the saloon people would not be doing their duty if they failed to exercise their right of suffrage and to vote for the saloon.

Every body knows when the saloonist has a bad day, and when the 200 and more men and women who crowded the saloon last night fled into the street after the saloon, a few were heard to remark:

"That was a hard blow for Penrose and his side of the saloon."

The people have been aroused by Doctor Anderson that plan for an active campaign against the saloon, who has the backing of the saloon interests, are being widely discussed.

Following last night's meeting, an assembly of almost every street corner after the saloon had been closed, and the saloon people are being urged to vote for the saloon.

So enthusiastic have many of the church workers become that, by request of many, Doctor Anderson will again repeat the sermon he preached at the "rum" today at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

The people have been aroused by Doctor Anderson that plan for an active campaign against the saloon, who has the backing of the saloon interests, are being widely discussed.

Following last night's meeting, an assembly of almost every street corner after the saloon had been closed, and the saloon people are being urged to vote for the saloon.

So enthusiastic have many of the church workers become that, by request of many, Doctor Anderson will again repeat the sermon he preached at the "rum" today at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

The people have been aroused by Doctor Anderson that plan for an active campaign against the saloon, who has the backing of the saloon interests, are being widely discussed.

Following last night's meeting, an assembly of almost every street corner after the saloon had been closed, and the saloon people are being urged to vote for the saloon.

So enthusiastic have many of the church workers become that, by request of many, Doctor Anderson will again repeat the sermon he preached at the "rum" today at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

The people have been aroused by Doctor Anderson that plan for an active campaign against the saloon, who has the backing of the saloon interests, are being widely discussed.

Following last night's meeting, an assembly of almost every street corner after the saloon had been closed, and the saloon people are being urged to vote for the saloon.

So enthusiastic have many of the church workers become that, by request of many, Doctor Anderson will again repeat the sermon he preached at the "rum" today at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

The people have been aroused by Doctor Anderson that plan for an active campaign against the saloon, who has the backing of the saloon interests, are being widely discussed.

Following last night's meeting, an assembly of almost every street corner after the saloon had been closed, and the saloon people are being urged to vote for the saloon.

PENROSE WORKERS WORRIED BY DEMOCRAT'S STATEMENT

They Have "Signally Failed" to Register a Big Vote, Says Morris

Republican organization workers were considerably worried today over a statement made by Chairman Morris, of the Democratic State Committee, which in effect was that they had "signally failed" to bring out and register a large Penrose vote preliminary to the approaching fall election.

Mr. Morris said his assertion was based on a comprehensive study of registration returns from all parts of Pennsylvania, and from a statistical standpoint alone he was unable to see how Penrose could avoid being swept out of office by a crushing defeat at the polls.

The Democratic chairman said the organization workers' effort was particularly disappointing in the cities, where he attempted to register a big Penrose vote to offset a rural animosity against Standard Oil.

"In this they signally failed," said Mr. Morris, "and unless our government will prevail against all dark ways of the machine."

He said the victory would be complete only when the interests of the country at heart went to the polls on election day.

Concerning the situation in Philadelphia, Mr. Morris said: "A large registration in Philadelphia is necessary to give us a chance to add that the anti-Republican registration, including Democratic, Washington and non-partisan, is the heaviest in the history of the city."

He said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

A further statement and stratifying feature of the Philadelphia situation is that the increase of registration over 1912 are in the independent strength of the city, where the anti-Republican vote which was significant last year is evidently around this year and prepared to resist its opposition to the Penrose machine."

Mr. Morris said the registration in Philadelphia has never been an indicated strength in the primary or on the books of the party.

FLEEING BELGIANS RUSHED INTO TRAP, IS DUTCH REPORT

Rumors Persistent of Disaster to King Albert's Men. Order Being Restored in Antwerp.

FLUSHING, Holland, Oct. 12.—Reports that a great part of the Belgian army that fled from Antwerp has suffered disaster are current here today. A dispatch from Hiltz states that thousands of King Albert's men have crossed the Dutch frontier and surrendered for internment.

The rumors, persistently circulated, say that the retreating Belgians were trapped between Lokeren and St. Nicholas by German advancing from the east and south and were routed with heavy losses.

The last forts at Antwerp have yielded to the Germans, the tress there have been extinguished by German troops and normal conditions are being rapidly restored, according to information received here today.

Latest reports indicate that the city did not suffer terrific damage from the bombardment. The flames and resultant loss were largely confined to the suburbs of Berchem and the southern part of the city.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

Long after the forts had been evacuated by the Belgians the Germans continued to rain shells upon the ruins in order to destroy any unexploded mines in the neighborhood. Near the southern suburbs the Belgians had planted an elaborate net work of mines, but the Germans, having been warned by traitorous residents of the city, took good care to avoid the danger zone.

General von Beseler, the German commander, is co-operating with Burgomaster de Vos in restoring a condition of tranquility in the captured city. Couriers have been dispatched along the roads on which the city's residents fled and they are being urged to return and take up their usual occupations.

ENGLISH TEA EXPORTS TO HOLLAND INCREASE

Six Times Greater—May Be Shipped Into Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A six-fold increase in the shipments of tea from London to Holland is shown by the official returns issued by the custom house as compared with the figures of a year ago.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany.

"YOUR TURN NEXT," GERMAN'S AERIAL THREAT TO PARIS

Second Attack by Bombs From Sky Early Today. Four Killed on Sunday. Kaiser Leaves "Calling Card."

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Another German aerial raid upon Paris, the second within 24 hours, was made today by a Taube aeroplane, which swooped down upon the city from the northeast and dropped bombs between two crowded passenger trains that were just steaming out of the Northern Railway station.

The missiles failed to explode, and were later found imbedded in the earth two feet beneath the surface.

Paris had not yet recovered from its excitement over Sunday's raid when the second attack from the sky was suddenly and unexpectedly launched.

Just a short time before French aerial patrols had returned after vainly scouring the sky for the two Taube machines that had dropped eight bombs yesterday, killing four persons and wounding 14.

The German attacks have failed to produce the panic that the Germans evidently hoped for, but they have caused a feeling of anxiety. It is feared now that a night attack may be made and that women and children will suffer.

Among the French military authorities and troops stationed here there is a feeling of stoicism out of keeping with the excitable temperament of the French.

The aerial patrols have been warned to exercise the most vigilant precautions, and throughout the night the sky will be swept with searchlights every ten minutes.

Along with the eight bombs dropped by the Taube during Sunday's raid, the Kaiser's son, Prince August Wilhelm, was among the first of the German officers to penetrate the Antwerp fortifications, according to a dispatch from The Hague.

The Prince at once sent an enthusiastic message to the Kaiser, who replied, bestowing the Iron Cross upon him and also upon General Hans von Beseler, who commanded the besieging army.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says that a message from Berlin stating that "Prince Joachim, who was wounded in battle, has recovered and rejoined the army."

The aerial patrols have been warned to exercise the most vigilant precautions, and throughout the night the sky will be swept with searchlights every ten minutes.

Along with the eight bombs dropped by the Taube during Sunday's raid, the Kaiser's son, Prince August Wilhelm, was among the first of the German officers to penetrate the Antwerp fortifications, according to a dispatch from The Hague.

The Prince at once sent an enthusiastic message to the Kaiser, who replied, bestowing the Iron Cross upon him and also upon General Hans von Beseler, who commanded the besieging army.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says that a message from Berlin stating that "Prince Joachim, who was wounded in battle, has recovered and rejoined the army."

The aerial patrols have been warned to exercise the most vigilant precautions, and throughout the night the sky will be swept with searchlights every ten minutes.

Along with the eight bombs dropped by the Taube during Sunday's raid, the Kaiser's son, Prince August Wilhelm, was among the first of the German officers to penetrate the Antwerp fortifications, according to a dispatch from The Hague.

The Prince at once sent an enthusiastic message to the Kaiser, who replied, bestowing the Iron Cross upon him and also upon General Hans von Beseler, who commanded the besieging army.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says that a message from Berlin stating that "Prince Joachim, who was wounded in battle, has recovered and rejoined the army."

The aerial patrols have been warned to exercise the most vigilant precautions, and throughout the night the sky will be swept with searchlights every ten minutes.

Along with the eight bombs dropped by the Taube during Sunday's raid, the Kaiser's son, Prince August Wilhelm, was among the first of the German officers to penetrate the Antwerp fortifications, according to a dispatch from The Hague.

The Prince at once sent an enthusiastic message to the Kaiser, who replied, bestowing the Iron Cross upon him and also upon General Hans von Beseler, who commanded the besieging army.

PIGEONS IMPORTANT FACTOR IN KAISER'S SPY SYSTEM

British War Office Orders Seizure of Cross-Channel Fliers.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The authorities intend to confiscate or kill all pigeons owned by alien enemies in England. This action follows upon information supplied to the War Office recently by a pigeon expert.

The Germans have for years been training pigeons to fly from England, and the British War Office has been endeavoring to intercept them. Their Government subsidizes lofts of pigeons, which are kept in various places, including the forts. These pigeons have no doubt been used by spies for many years.

A pigeon has flown 600 miles in ten hours. Every effort must be made to kill a bird seen flying across the North Sea. It might be quite as important for the crew of a warship to bring it down as for them to hit an aeroplane. The ring on an English bird bears the letters "E. L.," but these letters do not appear on foreign birds.

"Since the outbreak of war detectives have visited a number of lofts and have compelled German owners to kill every bird in their presence. Many birds are worth £10 each."

The official statement follows: "The Austrians' rapid advance has relieved Przemysl of the Russians. The Austrians entered all places where the Russians attempted to offer resistance. Russians were beaten and fled in the direction of the San River, endeavoring to cross at Sienawa and Lezajko, where a great number of them were captured."

According to a Rome dispatch the Austrians also claim victories over the Russians at Lanut and Dynow. In Galicia, it is known that they have received reinforcements which Petrograd admits has compelled a change in the Russian plans.

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

RUSSIANS IN ROUT AS AUSTRIAN ARMY RELIEVES PRZEMYSL

Vienna Reports Lifting of Siege—Dynow and Rzeszow Taken by Austro-German Columns in Their Advance.

VIENNA, Oct. 11.—An official report from the General Staff states that an Austrian army, sent to relieve Przemysl, has entered the Galicia fortresses and lifted the siege. It declares that the Russians fled before the Austrian reinforcements.

The official statement follows: "The Austrians' rapid advance has relieved Przemysl of the Russians. The Austrians entered all places where the Russians attempted to offer resistance. Russians were beaten and fled in the direction of the San River, endeavoring to cross at Sienawa and Lezajko, where a great number of them were captured."

According to a Rome dispatch the Austrians also claim victories over the Russians at Lanut and Dynow. In Galicia, it is known that they have received reinforcements which Petrograd admits has compelled a change in the Russian plans.

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

The relief of Przemysl substantiates an earlier dispatch from Rome received by the Exchange Telegraph Company in London.

"It is stated from Vienna that two Austro-German columns, rushing to the relief of Przemysl, reached Dynow and Rzeszow, respectively, on Saturday."

BIG WEEK FOR DEMOCRATS

State Candidates Will Tour Northern and Northwestern Counties.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—The Democratic State candidates met here late this afternoon before beginning a week of campaigning that will cover a large part of the northern and northwestern counties.

Van C. McCormick, candidate for governor, spent part of the day at his office and then joined A. McSodell, Baltimore, candidate for United States Senator, and other candidates on their way to Sunbury, where a night meeting will be held.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Berks counties, with a Saturday night meeting at Pottsville. Congressman Palmer will end the week at Altoona.

Tomorrow the candidates will stop at Jesses Shores, Monticelloville, Minors, Monticelloville and other points in Lycoming County, with a night meeting at Williamsport. McCormick will be joined Friday morning by Deen Lewis, who returned from the Washington party ticket in his favor, and will tour Crawford and Ber